FRIENDS OF FITZGERALD MARINE RESERVE

Annual Volunteer Naturalist Training Classes

Experience the Wonder of the Tidepools

Volunteer naturalists share the wonders of Fitzgerald Marine Reserve with school groups and the general public. As a volunteer, you will be helping to protect our rich, unique intertidal environment and inspiring our visitors' imaginations and understanding. Being a volunteer naturalist is an exciting and rewarding experience. Volunteers are required to volunteer a minimum of 6 hours per month during the busy tour season (January through June), and 4 hours per month July through December.

Instruction covers marine biology, ecology and interpretive strategies and will prepare you to become a tidepool docent. Training consists of ten (10) Saturday classes plus six additional hours spent at the Reserve with a mentor. The class will be held coastside near the Reserve and at the Reserve. The schedule for 2017 is: January 7, 14 21, 28, February 4, 11, 25, March 4, 11, 18. NOTE: No class February 18, Presidents' Day Holiday. FFMR will host a graduation party on March 25, so please include that in your schedule of classes. All classes are five hours in length.

Please visit www.fitzgeraldreserve.org to register or for more information. Demo tours are available to find out what it is like to be a docent. Docents must be physically capable to navigate the rocks and reef, and be over 17 years old.

Fee for Class: $65; Limited Seating

Registration ends December 15, 2016*

*Any cancellation after December 15, 2016 forfeits Class Fee
